Policeman William T. Gelhardt, of the 14th avenue station, Brooklyn, who was shot and killed John E. Greene, a few days ago, died shortly before midnight last night at the Homeopathic Hospital.

Blood poisoning was the immediate cause of death.

Gelhardt was conscious until within a short time before he expired, and he repeatedly said to his wife, "I am waiting for my trial for the murder of Greene."

September Gelhardt went home to his wife and children. He was not at home when the shooting took place. He was very nervous and his suspicions were aroused.

He began to look around the house and a man's coat lying on the floor, opening a closed door he found a man standing in the corner of the room. He ordered him out of the house.

The policeman was heart-broken over the death of his wife and he continued to live together. A few days later, Gelhardt discovered the body of his wife in the street.

He was released on bail for trial. The case hung fire, and Gelhardt became dependent upon the loss of his wife. His temporary suspension from duty, and the delay in calling his case for trial.

His wife disappeared, and he went to live with his brother at 140 Bedford street. Monday, a week after the death of his wife, he was found in the street.

James Hanway, a laborer, forty years old, of 115 Livingston street, Brooklyn, got into a quarrel with his two brothers shortly after midnight this morning at 10 Veranda place, and drawing a hatchet, it is alleged, struck one of them on the head, fracturing his skull. In the Butler Street Police Court to-day he was sent to jail for three days on a charge of intoxication and held for examination on April 30 on a charge of assault.

Hanway visited his brothers, Patrick and Richard, last evening at their home. At 10 o'clock he fell asleep in a chair. They allowed him to remain until midnight, when they awoke him and told him to go home. He refused to leave, claiming they had relieved him of his money.

There was a quarrel, and the brothers tried to eject him. He was only defended himself. He ordered him out of the house.

Patrick, who was struck on the head, was removed to the Long Island College Hospital in an ambulance.

The coroner was called to his home. He says he carried the hatchet to the mortuary from bricks on new buildings.

M'KANE'S PROSECUTORS.

May Ask To-Day for Remuneration for Their Labors.

Gen. Benjamin F. Tracy, Albert E. Lamb, Edward M. Shepard and Jere A. Wernberg were not ready this morning to present affidavits stating the exact amount of service they had rendered Kings County in prosecuting the Gravesend election cases.

They were given time by Justice Gaynor to submit their affidavits late this afternoon or to-morrow morning.

Mr. Wernberg said that no specific remuneration would be asked. He said the affidavits would simply state the work done. The court could fix the value of the service.

The bill of expenses will amount to about $5,000. Of this $5,000 is credited to the Committee of One Hundred in collecting evidence, and the $500 was used by Mr. Shepard in preparing the cases.

Justice Gaynor has not announced whether he will fix the amount due the prosecuting lawyers or send the whole matter to a referee.

EX-PIEST GAINS TIME.

Case of E. M. Perhaes Adjudged for One Week.

Emile M. Perhaes, the ex-priest, of 64 South Portland avenue, arrested a week ago on the charge of stealing 50 cents in marked coin from the trousers of a lady at Dr. Sheppard's fashionable Turkish bath establishment, 81 Columbia Heights, was arraigned again before Justice Walsh in the Adams Street Police Court this morning.

NEWARK, April 25.—Frank Hampson, aged three, of 51 Jones street, was killed by a trolley-car, in front of his home last night, and Julia Fallon, aged nine, had her foot crushed by another trolley-car near her home, at 181 Norfolk street, her life being saved only by the prompt action of the motorman in stopping the car.

Frank Hampson was playing in Jones street, near Springfield avenue, about 7 o'clock. As he was running across the street from his own stoop, a trolley-car came along and struck him before it could be stopped by Frank Erwin, the motorman.

The child was knocked down and his head was crushed by the "protecting" boards in front of the wheels. Death was instantaneous.

Motorman Erwin ran his car to the Fourth Street Police Station and gave himself up. He was not blamed for the accident, and this morning he was liberated on bail.

At Washington and Williams streets late last night a trolley-car demolished Julia Fallon, a nine-year-old girl, of 544 High street, was riding. Her colored driver was badly hurt, but Mr. Sanderson escaped injury.

KILLED WHILE PLAYING TAG.

Three Trolley Car Accidents, One of Them Fatal, in Newark.

HILLSDALE, N. J., April 25.—Through a magnificent display of nerve, yesterday, Tax Collector John W. Eckerson, of Washington Township, succeeded in collecting every penny of taxes that has been overdue for a long time.

The delinquents felt that they had been "held up" in the most approved style and, as a matter of fact, the debtors of the township faced a combination which was pretty hard to beat, to wit, an ugly pair of handcuffs, a grue-some vehicle, the Black Maria, a rough herculean deputy sheriff and Tax Collector Eckerson himself.

He got all due to the town, and he did not have a single dollar in his pocket when he left the town.

BOTH HIS LEGS BROKEN.

Riding Master Hurt in Stopping a Pupils' Runaway Horse.

MONTCLAIR, N. J., April 25.—Riding Master C. W. Potter, who had both legs broken yesterday while trying to stop a runaway horse owned by Miss Boswell, Sunday, one of his pupils, was mortally injured, lying at his home in a dangerous condition. Drs. Soper and Brown are, however, hopeful of his recovery.

The accident occurred in Park street, Newark. Miss Boswell was riding a spirited horse when it took fright and bolted. Riding Master Potter put spurs to his horse and gave chase. He came up with the runaway after a short run, and, leaning over, caught the frightened animal's bridle. The horse, however, was so frightened that he jerked from his saddle, his own horse falling on him. Miss Boswell was more frightened than hurt. The riding-master was unconscious when taken from the scene, and both of his legs were broken below the knees.

Close to the sidewalk, at a point near where South and Corlies streets intersect, Congressman Timothy J. Campbell lies buried, according to the inscription over the supposititious grave that has been dug for him.

It is topped by a headstone on which, surrounded by a black border, is inscribed the following legend:

In memory of TIMOTHY J. CAMPBELL, The workman's friend, May his soul rest in the Park.

At the foot of the mound is a stunted weeping-willow tree, and at any hour, from early dawn until twilight shrouds the vicinity, and the superstitious say, makes it uncanny, mourners, in groups, or flocking by themselves, make pilgrimages to the adjacent street.

An "Evening World" reporter who visited the spot this morning, was struck by the lugubrious aspect of several of these people, and when he asked the cause of their sorrow they instead of replying, invariably pointed silently to the tombstone.

It is said that the meaning of all this still makes itself painfully apparent to the only original Timothy when he presents himself at the polls for reelection as Congressman next June. Mr. Campbell has made many enemies in his district by a bill by which the big area between Jackson and Corlies streets and South and Madison streets, is being converted into a park.

All the lumber yards, marble yards, iron yards, laboratories, sugar refineries and other industries located by the three blocks north and south and three blocks east and west, have, of course, been removed, and 1,000 persons at least are consequently out of a job.

"We always voted for Tim," said one of the mourners.

He always had such a persuasive way of kissing the babies, until he'd made us believe that he actually loved them. That won't work next time, I'm afraid to teach my young one to chew tobacco, so that if Tim comes sniffling around his face I'll tell him to quit him one in the eye."

UNITED AGAINST TAMMANY.

Charles Stecker Predicts the Doom of the Wixwam Forces.

Charles Stecker, one of the leaders of the Independent County Organization, speaking this morning of the progress of the Anti-Tammany movement, expressed the belief that the Tammany defeat at the coming election was certain. The signs in that direction were unmistakable.

He looks now to the casual observer as if things were in a state of chaos, in different directions for different purposes. He is, however, their aim and object are one; they are working as one man for one purpose—to down Tammany Hall.

On election day the Tammany ring will be broken. The Independent County Organization will spare no efforts to weld together the celebration by the execution, and the Tammany ring will be broken.

The Murderer of His Brother Gets Another Lease of Life.

MORRISTOWN, N. J., April 25.—August Bergman, who killed his brother in a quarrel over $2, and who was to have been hanged in the Morristown County Jail at this place to-morrow, was overjoyed this morning when he was informed that the County Jail had granted a new lease of life.

His counsel served notice on Sheriff Backer that the United States Supreme Court had granted a stay, pending argument on an application for a new writ.

Sheriff Backer had made all the preparations for the execution, and Bergman was to be put to death last night to put up the gallows.
